ANZAC Day Wednesday, 25 April

In the years immediately following World War I, governments and society in general had not accepted the responsibility for those incapacitated and bereft as a result of war. In Britain and across the Commonwealth, unemployment accentuated the problem. Earl Haig, the British Commander-in-Chief, undertook the task of organising the British Legion as a means of coping with the problems of hundreds and thousands of men who had served under him in battle.

In 1921, a group of widows of French ex-servicemen called on him, at the British Legion Headquarters. They brought with them from France some poppies they had made, and suggested that they might be sold as a means of raising money to aid the distressed among those who were incapacitated as a result of the war. The first red poppies to come to Australia, in 1921, were made in France.

In Australia, single poppies are not usually worn on ANZAC Day - the poppy belongs to Remembrance Day, 11 November. However, wreaths of poppies are traditionally placed at memorials and honour boards on ANZAC Day.

The symbolism of the red poppy has been translated to represent the red blood of those who gave their lives, the black at the poppies centre as the representation of the grief of their families and friends, left behind and the green of the leaf to represent the new life and growth for the hope of the future.

Members of the Hall Committee had a working bee at the Hall grounds recently. We removed some of the trees in poor condition at the rear of the carpark, and generally tidied the area. A great outcome was that there are now spectacular views down the valley.

We also now have a supply of timber for our next Community Campfire later in the year.

Thanks to Blackwood Tree Service for kindly mulching the pile of branches etc. after the clean-up. Blackwood Tree Service is now based in Cherry Gardens, and advertises in the Cherry Chatter. We suggest you give them a call if you require tree services.

On Monday 12th the CGGC were privileged to hear from Kevin Handreck ex CSIRO researcher, author of 3 books among them "Growing Media for Plants and Turf, 50 scientific papers, and a couple of hundred articles in popular, trade magazine articles for the nursery industry. We heard all about the needs of our plants with regard to soils, specifically the danger of over watering as a knee jerk reaction in either shallow sandy, sticky clay, or water repellent, and/or non draining soils. "Wet feet" can cause rotting of the essential fine root tip hairs with the result that the plants ability to absorb nutrients and moisture is cut off. We heard of the way to increase drainage by adding gypsum to clay soils, bentonite or diluted clay watered over unwettable soils and the essential need for soil wetter in some of these soils. The waxy substance exuded by micro-organisms after the processing of organic matter can also lead to unwettable characteristics of soil.

We also heard of patches or layers of non wetting soils within a pot or a garden bed.

There were many questions from the floor indicating that this is an area of concern for many gardeners. At the end of the evening Kevin adjudicated our 2018 Tomato Challenge and announced that the plate of cherry tomatoes entered by John Duckmanton was the winner. They fetched a good price on the auction at the end of the evening. Congratulations John who attributed his success to horse manure.

The evening closed with a delicious tasty supper, as usual.

OVER THE STABLE DOOR

Greetings Fellow Equines and Horse Owners!

Looks like we are heading into a dry autumn, so there will still be snakes about, so do keep your horse areas free of debris, clutter and long grass. Those who are not so good 'doers' may start to lose a bit of condition. It pays to keep an eye on this as it may be difficult to get that weight back on once the colder weather hits. For the good 'doers' (such as yours truly), this is quite a good time as we can afford to drop that bit of extra without any worries! If ground cover has been reduced so that there are bare patches, and you are hand feeding hay in the paddock, there can be a risk of colic through ingesting sandy soil with bits of hay. A couple of things can help here – put the hay into an 'off the ground' feeding rack, or get a large length of industrial rubber sheeting and feed your equine off that. The rubber sheet can also be placed under the feeder. Of course feed will still get spread around, but at least this will minimise your risk. Also feeding your horse on an area of pavers works well too. If it is possible, do this near to his water source, so that hay is not spread around too far as he wanders from food to water.

Rugging at this time of year can be tricky too, as the days are still warm, but the nights are definitely getting colder. However, remember the horse is already wearing his own fur coat, and unless he is old or unwell, there is no need to rug just yet. It is when you get the chill factors of wind and rain that the horse can suffer, so although the nights may be getting cold, Autumn is not generally windy, so not a great need to rug. Light rugging does help to keep your neddly clean, but don't put it on without checking and grooming once a week at the minimum. My new paddock mate had a synthetic rug left on him last winter and was not worked. He still has lumps of old scabs along his back from dried sweat and dirt which are hard to remove without causing him discomfort. The synthetic rugs are great to use, but they can become very warm in moderate weather. Best to keep rugs off whenever practicable.

Back to the float loading/parking! Doing your homework before asking to perform new tasks will pay off and be less stressful for both of you. It is best done somewhere in his normal work area where he feels safe and secure. Just like us humans, they cannot learn in a stressful situation, so you need as few distractions as possible. Teaching your horse to park is a valuable asset and is an essential part of his education. It can be done with a halter or bridle, an ordinary lead rope or a long western one. Once he is in your quiet area, just have him standing and move away from him a little (this depends on the horse). If he follows you, put him back to the same place. It is easier to do this with a long whip (with a light tap, tap just below the knee) so that you don't have to move your own feet. As soon as he is back where he started, you must cease the tap. You can gradually increase the distance, or just walk around the horse from both directions. The key is any time he moves, put him back where he was – he will soon get the idea. As you and he get better with this you will be able to move far away from him without him moving. THEN add in your word cue like 'stand' and he will obey that. Make sure you practise and have patience and end on a good note. Remember to reward with praise and a scratch at the wither (this lowers his heart rate). Now you can go off and put up your jumps or whatever and he can watch! More next time....

Happy munching and safe riding,
Hamish

CFS NEWS

By the time this is published it will be April, anyone else get the feeling this is going to be another short year?

Thanks to everyone who prepared their properties and put bushfire plans in place over summer – it all adds up to less risk from bushfires to us all. The countryside is still very dry so please remain vigilant around fire safety until the rains have set in later in the year.

Operationally, we have been relatively quiet in the last month which means things in our area have been running smoothly. We did supply members to assist with the Kangaroo Island fire last month as the island is in our region. It was a two day deployment and although crews worked some long hours, it had a successful outcome.

We have been involved in some successful fundraising efforts recently. Of note is a very generous donation from the Cherry Chatter committee who donated funds to enable us to purchase an extra portable VHF hand held radio. It was identified some time ago we needed an extra radio for each of Cherry Gardens 34 & 34P to enhance crew safety by improving communications during an emergency (it is very much the case that to fight a fire, you have a hose in one hand and a radio in the other!) The brigade set about fundraising some time ago, but with the extra support from the Cherry Chatter it now means we have achieved our goal. There is now an extra hand held radio in each appliance – many thanks to the generosity of the Cherry Chatter committee and the community that supports this hard working group.

Work has begun on renovating the front of the station which will give it a more modern, smarter look. This project was given the green light some time ago, so it is good to see it now underway – it may even be completed by the time this is published!

We also held a recruiting/open day last month, so hopefully many of you were able to come and see what we do. Potentially we are still looking to add to our membership, so if you have ever thought you might be able to help, come and see us any Monday night. As well as firefighters, there are also roles for radio operators in the communication facility at the station. Whatever the position, it is a lot of fun with a great group of people. Perhaps we will see you soon!

Cheers

CHURCH NEWS

John McCrae was a Canadian doctor and teacher who started writing poetry at an early age. "In Flanders Fields", his second last poem, was composed at the battlefield on May 3rd, 1915, during the second battle of Ypres, in a region called Flanders. There were actually poppies growing in the fields among the unmarked graves of the war dead. The poem was written following the death of a friend and former student of McCrae's, and is said to have vividly portrayed the scene before him as he wrote.

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard among the guns below.

We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.

If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

Lest we forget.

Clean Up Australia Day

Cherry Gardens Clean Up Australia Day Event Success!

Sunday 4th March 2018 was Clean Up Australia Day, and the crew from Jacobs Rd did a fantastic job! Jacobs Rd was registered formally as a Clean Up Australia Day site, and residents were seen collecting all sorts of rubbish from the intersection of Jacobs Rd and Cherry Gardens Rd, all the way down to the end of Jacobs Rd. Adults and children were involved, as well as local puppy and personality, "Honey the Kelpidor". Everyone was decked out in a mix of Hi-Vis jackets, and bright yellow or pink gloves, and were using special bags provided by the Clean Up Australia Day organisers.

In total, 277 pieces of rubbish were collected, with 11 pieces being recyclable. Some of the rubbish collected included: beer bottles and cans, plastic drink bottles, single-use plastic bags, chip and lolly wrappers, and pizza boxes.

One of the Jacobs Rd crew, Eden, said that it "was so much fun, and I want to do it again next year!" Another crew member, Ruby, said "it was great fun cleaning up with a friend".

Bonnie and Shane, who organised the clean up of Jacobs Rd, would like to encourage all of Cherry Gardens to share the responsibility for cleaning up the rubbish that is strewn over Cherry Gardens Rd.

"I know people don't like to pick up other people's rubbish, and they really shouldn't have to, but there isn't a 'rubbish fairy' and no-one else is going to do it. If we want Cherry Gardens Rd to be litter-free, then we just have to go out and pick it up. If every household in Cherry Gardens picked up 10 pieces of rubbish from the main road, it would all be gone," said Bonnie.

If you agree with Bonnie and Shane, and would like to see our main road clear of rubbish (and there is rather a lot of it out there), then perhaps consider setting aside five minutes' of your time in the next couple of days, and collecting some of the rubbish?

GEORGE'S GARDENING SUGGESTIONS FOR APRIL 2018

In the veggie garden it is time to plant all of the Brassica family as well as Broad Beans, Onions, and Turnips.

Flowers to plant this month could include Pansies, Poppies, and Primulas. Continue to plant Spring flowering bulbs.

Feed your fruit trees with a mineral mix just outside of the drip-line of the tree, and water in well.

Now is a good time to propagate hardwood cuttings.

Make full use of Autumn leaves as they can be a valuable source of nutrient for the soil. Either mulch them or just pile them up, water them down and leave in a heap preferably with some sort of barrier to stop them blowing around. They will eventually rot down to produce leaf mould which can be dug in to improve your soil.

FRIENDS OF SCOTT CREEK CONSERVATION PARK

The Friends are a small but dedicated group of volunteers who are working to restore native habitat within Scott Creek Conservation Park for the benefit of our local plants and wildlife.

Regular activities include managing weeds that smother and out-compete native plants, bird banding, which contributes data on birds within the park to the Biological Data Base of SA, and surveying and monitoring the flora and fauna of the park.

If you are looking for an opportunity to take meaningful action for nature conservation, come along and join us in this beautiful part of the Adelaide Hills. The group has a wealth of knowledge and experience that we are happy to share with anybody interested in helping out.

Anyone wanting information about the group or park, or wanting to get involved in any of the Friends' activities, can contact Peter Watton on 0427 010 949 or go to www.friendsofscottcreek.org.au.

All working bees meet at the 9.00am at the Almanda Car Park on Dorset Vale Road (unless there is a MLR fire ban or very wet weather).

Once again as the breeding season draws to a close we have had an amazing success rate with frozen semen inseminations. It was a difficult year to begin with thanks to very unseasonable weather but once we got the mares to the point of being able to inseminate the pregnancies happened. We are still finding for the fourth year in a row that we are doing more frozen inseminations than chilled & the success rate has again been higher with the frozen-even with a number of loose dose inseminations. We still have a few more mares to do so let's hope that we can add to the pregnancy tally!

Equine Dentistry - Is sedation really necessary?

We keep hearing that sedation used for Equine Dentistry is only for badly behaved horses or vets who can't handle horses. This is very untrue!

Sedation allows for a thorough examination involving touch and sight. This helps identify any problems early for easiest treatment and management. Sedation also allows for equipment such as light and mirrors to be used, and reduces stress on the horse as well as ensures safety for the handler. It keeps the horse's muscles relaxed & also acts as pain relief.

Another thing to consider is that the worse the pathology in the mouth the worse the unsedated horse plays up, and he is the one that needs a thorough job the most. Only vets can legally sedate a horse and have the insurance to do so. Please remember that good regular dental care can help prevent many cases of colic or choke as well as ensure the best welfare of your horse or pony!

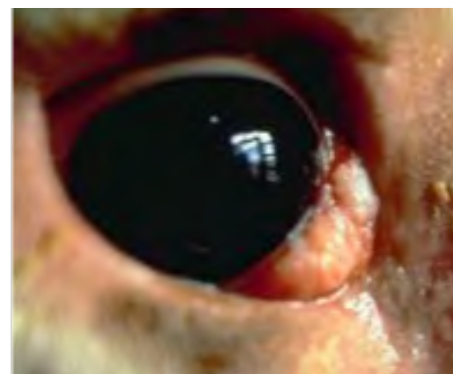

Dr Greg is a registered Equine Dental vet with many years of experience - by far the best person to look after your horse's teeth! Please check out our website for more information
Cancer Eye in Cattle (Horses can get these too!)

We have seen quite a few cows lately with Cancer Eye (also known as Squamous Cell Carcinoma) - here is what you should know about this condition! Eye cancer occurs in mainly older cattle, particularly Herefords, Poll Herefords and Friesians with unpigmented eyelids and eyeballs. Cancer eye growths can occur on the eyeball, eyelid or third eyelid.

All eye cancers develop from precursor lesions, but less than half of these lesions develop into cancer. The precursor lesion can be:

- a plaque (a slightly elevated, flat, opaque area on the eyeball)
- a papilloma (a wart-like growth protruding from the eyeball)
- a keratoma (a horn-like projection attached to the eyelid)
- a small ulcer on the eyelid.

The cancerous tissue also grows inwards, invading the deeper tissues behind the eye. It can progress to the lymph nodes of the head and then to body organs such as the lungs and liver. Cancers that begin in the third eyelid or outer eyelids usually invade the deeper tissues more quickly than do those that start on the eyeball.

The main message is that early detection and treatment is extremely important!

Finally just a reminder that we now offer Laser Therapy treatments, have a fabulous groomer available, are taking registrations for our next K9 Kindy & always have a vet on duty if you have an emergency after hours!

WILFRED TAYLOR RESERVE

The City of Onkaparinga is developing a master plan for the Wilfred Taylor Reserve to guide future development of this site and determine how we improve the area in the short, medium and longer term. We are seeking community feedback on the current facilities at Wilfred Taylor Reserve and ideas for the future.

Visit www.onkaparingacity.com/communityengagement to complete the survey and have your say.

Community survey available between 26 March – 23 April 2018.

Contact Danielle Gevers on 8384 0666.

CHANGES TO ONKAPARINGA MAGAZINE

The April edition of Onkaparinga Magazine will be the last one in its current format, but it will only be available on our website with no printed copies available. This is because we're introducing an all-new digital publication in July featuring a fresh design.

The July edition will again be digital, but we'll also provide a small number of printed copies at council offices, libraries and community centres. We'll update everyone on council's website and our Facebook page as we make the transition to our new magazine.

Civic awards opening soon

Nominations will soon open for the City of Onkaparinga's Civic Awards which recognise and celebrate the extraordinary achievements and contributions individuals and groups have made in the community.

Award categories include community service, outstanding personal achievement, sport, education, bravery and environment.

City of Onkaparinga Mayor, Lorraine Rosenberg, said the awards help to recognise the hard work, dedication and achievements of people in the community and thank those who are making a positive difference.

"There are so many people across the City of Onkaparinga who are achieving great things, are working to better our community and are contributing their time, knowledge and skills to help others," Mayor Rosenberg said.

"I encourage people to take a few moments to think about people they know who deserve to be recognised and thanked for what they do in our community, and complete a nomination form."

Nomination forms including eligibility criteria are available at council offices and online.

Nominations will be open from May until 22 June and the awards will be presented at a civic function in August.

Onkaparinga Libraries Service Review

The City of Onkaparinga recently completed a service review of its six libraries.

The objective was to ensure all six libraries continue to meet current community needs and are best placed to respond to broader trends that are changing the definition of what libraries offer in future.

"The review showed that library services are performing very well against other benchmarked services in SA and nationally, and we're very proud of our team for this achievement," said Community Relations Director Philomena Taylor.

The review identified ongoing efficiency savings of $290,000 each year, to commence from the 2018-19 budget.

"This figure represents less than three per cent of our $10.4 million annual libraries budget. These savings will have little or no impact on the level of service provided to the community."

The $290,000 saving includes a $50,000 reduction in the purchase of items for loan.

"We can achieve this and still meet the needs of our customers because the One Card system now enables people to borrow and return items from any library within the state.

"The remaining savings will be found by reviewing whether we need to replace vacancies when they arise and by changing the way we manage our pool of casual employees.

"This is good practice and makes sure we are delivering library services efficiently."

Ms Taylor said the service review process required that Council consider all possibilities and which is why the full report document contained a financial analysis of possible library closures.

However, library closures did not form part of the final recommendations to Council.

"Council did not resolve to close libraries, our elected members only approved $290,000 in annual savings and the creation of a strategic management plan (SMP).

"The SMP will guide our library services over the next three years and we're aiming to present this to Council in August 2018 for approval."

Have your say on the future of libraries

To develop the SMP, council will speak with staff, library users, the broader community and other stakeholders.

This process has commenced through community focus groups and a survey will be available online before the end of March.
