Incorporated by the Cherry Gardens Community Association Inc.

Letter to the Editor

Thank you to our wonderful volunteers!

On Sunday 22nd January the Cherry Chatter committee (photographed) enjoyed some drinks, nibbles and a late afternoon BBQ at the Recreation Ground with some of our wonderful Cherry Chatter deliverers and other community and Council representatives. It was a great afternoon and an opportunity to catch up with friends and neighbours but more importantly to recognise the amazing effort that all our volunteers put in each month to produce and deliver the Cherry Chatter newsletters into your mailbox. It's certainly a real team effort and a great group of people however, as always, we'd welcome any additional help to share the load; whether it be to provide content ideas, help to produce the newsletter or even just to deliver newsletters to a few houses either side of where you live - every little bit helps and it's even something the kids can help with.

It was a wonderful afternoon catching up with neighbours and volunteers from all areas of our community, and while the adults shared stories and made plans to organise more community catch ups, the kids enjoyed all the amazing facilities that the Recreation Ground has to offer, including running under the sprinklers.

What we have here in Cherry Gardens, is truly unique and it's easy to take for granted the fact we have our own Memorial Hall, Soldiers Memorial Park, Church and Recreation Ground which is all community owned and run by volunteers. All of this along with a strong community spirit is something to be proud of, so don't be shy to get involved and offer your support to any of the sporting clubs or community groups in the area. It's so rewarding and you'll not only get to meet new friends and neighbours but you'll also learn more about the history of Cherry Gardens from those that have been living here for many years.

Thank you so much again, to everyone who contributes to, and supports the Cherry Chatter newsletter each month, as well as all the volunteers across the broader community who help make this an amazing place to live.

We are well into the fire season and things have been quiet in Cherry Gardens, with no major local incidents at the time of writing.

It has been a mild start to the season, but mid-January we were tasked with multiple jobs on the same afternoon - a timely reminder to make sure your home and property are always prepared for bushfires. Cherry Gardens 34 was responded to a large fire burning out of control at Montacute. This was as part of a Sturt Group Strike Team to assist with asset protection ahead of extreme forecast conditions associated with a wind change. While this crew was deployed, our bulk water carrier was sent to Aldinga airstrip to assist water bombing aircraft in use in the southern area. Shortly thereafter, Cherry Gardens 34P was responded to a grass fire threatening a property in Hawthorndene.

While we have had this cooler start to summer, we ask that our community takes this as a reminder that fires can start and threaten lives, homes, and properties even after such a beginning to the season. If you haven't already prepared your bushfire action plan and prepared your property for bushfire, now is the time to do it.

The CFS website has comprehensive information on "What can/can't you do" during the Fire Danger season, which for us in the Mt Lofty area runs through until 30 April 2023, although this could be extended if fire conditions have not moderated by then) This is a good resource and we would encourage everyone to be familiar with these restrictions. It also refers to what is allowable on total fire ban days.

As an example:

Can I use a solid fuel (wood/charcoal) kettle barbecue in the fire danger season?

YES - Provided that: the barbecue is clear of all flammable vegetation to a distance of at least 4 metres, a person who is able to control the fire is present at the site of the fire until it is extinguished, and appropriate extinguisher is at hand.

On a Total Fire Ban Day?

NO - A solid fuel burning kettle barbecue (one that uses fuel such as wood, charcoal or heat beads) cannot be used unless you get a Schedule 10 Permit from your local council. These permits are generally only issued for emergency purposes.

GEORGE'S GARDENING SUGGESTIONS FOR MARCH 2023

- Geranium cuttings can be taken now. Pick out the best pieces as you prune, cut just below a joint and strip off all but the top two or three leaves, total length about 10cm. They will root readily in a mixture of sharp sand and compost. Pelargoniums and fuchsias can be treated the same way and will grow into nice little pot-plants by next spring.
- Put up a trellis for sweet peas in a sunny position, and sow the seeds later this month.
- Tall-growing plants like dahlias and chrysanthemums start to sprawl from the combined weight of flowers and rain on foliage so staking will be necessary- not too tightly and not with string or wire that will cut into the stems.
- Plant bulbs of anemone, ranunculus, daffodil and lachenalia.
- Seedlings or seeds of snapdragons, cornflower, Iceland poppy and linaria planted this month will give great colour in the spring.
- In the vegetable patch give some thought to planting beetroot, cabbage, onion, parsley, peas and broad beans

OVER THE STABLE DOOR with Hamish

Greetings Fellow Equines and Horse Owners!
Hoping everyone has enjoyed the festive season and that all neddies are well. December's article finished with safety around horses, but only as far as the saddling up (there are so many details to remember)!

Now the saddle is on, the girth is at 'finger tightness' and we need to fit the bridle. There are many ways to place a bridle on a horse, so I will describe just one. The main thing is to be able to do this in as safe a manner as possible. Let's assume the horse is well trained to stand still and lower his head when being bridled and not resist the bit or headpiece. Standing alongside the horse facing basically frontwards, keeping clear of the front legs and holding the headpiece of the bridle in the right hand, you then place your forearm over the horse's poll, at the same time balancing the bit with your left hand. If he doesn't open his mouth straight away, the left thumb can just enter the corner of the lips (there are no teeth on this part of the jaw) and wriggle it around a bit. Most horses will readily accept this and take the bit. When securing the straps, work from top down, so start with throat latch first, then cavesson or other noseband last. The reins can be kept out of the way by looping over the left arm. When removing the bridle, work from bottom up after again placing the reins over the arm. To keep horse secure, the halter head piece can be attached around the neck with the cavesson section open and attached to the lead rope. Now there are many, many other ways of doing this and I have tried to keep it simple while breaking everything down into the smallest segments. The bottom line is always safety, which is why the correct fit of gear is so important. Gear which is too tight or too loose can cause varying degrees of discomfort to the horse and in some situations can be dangerous.

Once the bridle is on, check for the fitting. Things to look for include making sure that the browband is not too small and pressing against the base of the ears. Two fingers should easily fit between cheek pieces and side of the face, two fingers should be able to fit between the cavesson strap on the front of the face (not side by side, but on top of one another), the strap itself should fit about two fingers below the cheek bone.

The bit should not be too high nor too low, so a general guide is to see one to two crinkles of lips at the edge of the bit. Different horses have varying thicknesses of lips, so this will vary from horse to horse. The throat latch should have a four finger clearance all around. If unsure as to the correct fitting, get some help or advice from someone more experienced/qualified.

Once all parts are checked, give the horse a short walk to relax and stretch then finish with a final securing of the girth. If walking your horse some distance to an arena or mounting area, keep stirrups run up until you get there, especially if you have to negotiate gateways. If the horse is wearing a running martingale, then that should not be secured until you are ready to mount. When leading, keep reins over the head to lead.

As always, safety first makes safe riding and safe handling!

Yours safely, Hamish

FRIENDS OF SCOTT CREEK CONSERVATION PARK

During January, the two year anniversary of the Cherry Gardens wildfire, which burnt 50 hectares of the eastern side of Scott Creek CP came and went without much fanfare. Many people think that, two years on, everything is pretty much back to "normal". Unfortunately, nothing can be further from the truth.

While regeneration of native species has continued to benefit from the mild and wet years we have had since the fire, the same can also be said for many of the priority fire responsive weeds we have been working on. These continue to germinate throughout large parts of the park, whether in concentrated areas where previous large infestations occurred, like Montpellier Broom, English Broom and Tree Lucerne, or scattered isolated plants like Boneseed.

Some of our volunteer bushcareers hunting for English Broom and Tree Lucerne amongst regrowth Varnish Wattle

Much of the Friends Group's work over summer has been spent catching up on the treatment of these weeds across several areas of the park, many requiring multiple visits to the same areas to keep on top of growth.

In addition, there has been a lot of work done in the unburnt western side of the park, where more Montpellier Broom and the highly invasive Bluebell Creeper, a garden escapee from WA, has also had a very good year.

Our paparazzi taking photos of a Buff-rumped Thornbill being released after banding in February

On the bird banding front, numbers have remained reasonably low, in comparison to before the fire, with honeyeaters still slow to come back in any large numbers. We believe this is largely due to the lack of tree canopies, with many of the eucalypts in the park still with epicormic growth and yet to produce flowers since the fire. Mistletoes are also largely absent, and will take many more years to take back their place in the trees. These native parasitic plants provide an important food source over summer, when many other species have already finished flowering and seeding.

Anyone wanting to learn more about what we do and how you can help us with our restoration work, or simply wanting more information about the Friends of Scott Creek CP, can contact us on info@friendsofscottcreekcp.org.au or visit our website www.friendsofscottcreekcp.org.au. Ash Wednesday and Lent

As 2023 advances, memories of Christmas celebrations are probably still fresh in our minds – happy memories for some, sombre for others. But already we are approaching Easter and its unique celebrations.

On the church calendar, 6 weeks or so before Easter, there is Ash Wednesday, this year celebrated on February 22nd. Ash Wednesday is the first day of the season of Lent; Lent is a season of preparation for Easter. The word 'Lent' comes historically from a Germanic word that meant 'long', referring to the lengthening days of spring - in the northern hemisphere, of course. Over time, the use of the word Lent as a specifically religious observance took over from the seasonal usage. Christians use Lent as a time to reflect especially on the significance of the events that we remember at Easter: the fact that Jesus died on a cross and then rose from the dead; the fact that through Jesus' death we, with all our faults, can know that we are forgiven and are able to know God as Father. During Lent, Christians focus on repentance - being and saying sorry for wrongs done - and looking forward to new beginnings in their faith walk.

During Lent, as a sign of repentance, as a sign that they are serious about this, some people choose to give up something for the 6 weeks. Many give up eating meat. Some give up some other treats, such as coffee or chocolates, or going to the cinema. A number of years ago when I was talking about this with one of my school classes, one student eagerly offered to give up homework for the next 6 weeks!

This year, we invite you to use the season of Lent to think ahead to Easter, to reflect on what Jesus did and achieved on the cross for all people, to consider how you will respond to him in thanks to God and then in turn in service to others.

The members of the Cherry Gardens Uniting Church invite you to attend worship services at Cherry Church this Lent and Easter.

There will be services every Sunday during Lent, beginning at 9.30 am.

There will be a service on Good Friday, April 7th, beginning at 9.30 am.

There will be a service on Easter Sunday, April 9th, beginning at 9.30 am.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

ONKAPARINGA COUNCIL REPORT

GUARD RAILS ON CHERRY GARDENS ROAD

Council has extended consultation period to Monday 13 February 2023 and agree that this will enable members of the community the time required to respond over the holiday period.

The proposed consultation regarding the verge improvements along the Tom Roberts Horse trail is to seek the opinions and feedback of the community and users of the trail. We want to know what would improve the usability of this section of trail along Cherry Gardens Road.

Council has envisaged that removing invasive weeds and carefully pruning back trees along this section of Tom Roberts Horse trail would be one of the main improvements but understand that any work required needs to include the input of the local community and trail users.

Installation of guard rail has various requirements and limitations. The installation process of guard rail along Cherry Gardens Road was heavily influenced by the proximity of large trees, major fibre optic telecommunications service, large diameter SA Water trunk main and the geometry of the winding (in sections) narrow carriageway.

The project along Cherry Gardens Road was challenging when accounting for all the above listed items and to ensure functionality of the guard rail is upheld.

The Black Spot funding received from the Department for Infrastructure and Transport has been used in accordance with the funding agreement by City of Onkaparinga. A high number of crashes have occurred along the length of Cherry Gardens Road. Our application only considered crashes that were reported to SAPOL and resulted in fatalities or serious injuries. The treatments we applied for need to specifically address the kinds of crashes that were recorded by SAPOL. To this end our application resulted in a benefit cost ratio exceeding the minimal requirements of black funding.

We would appreciate any further ideas on how we can improve the situation for local users through the consultation process on our YourSay page.

FOOTBALL CLUB

The footy season is fast approaching. As reported last year we were approached by the Bridgewater Callington Raiders Football Club at the end of last season and asked to merge. Our members agreed to playing the 2023 season together under the terms of an MOU and it is now full steam ahead with a full complement of teams including a C Grade senior’s team.

Training is now underway for all the teams and the Hills Football League has released the fixture and we find that our first home game at the local oval will not be until round 5 which is later in April.

In the next Cherry Chatter, we will provide details of all home games and would encourage locals to come and watch some good hills footy, enjoy hot chips and gravy or a meat pie and a beer or glass of wine.

On Feb 24th we had a come and try session for the youngest kids and our women. It was a great success and bodes well for our 2023 season. It was a hot day but everyone had a good kick of the footy and then the sprinklers were turned on and the kids had a great time!
